Commercial Buildout

2110 Fitness was looking for a company to create their vision for a new fitness facility. Project considerations included maximizing the usability of the space, interior design to complement the client’s vision and an aggressive timeline to meet the business and operational demands.

Our Design Team

We were able to value engineer an ideal solution primarily because we have our own internal design and engineering team. By eliminating the need for input from outside agencies, we maintained a tight schedule without being burdened by extra cost.

Project Reference

“It was really important that when we were doing the construction, something outside my comfort zone, that we were able to trust the company we hired to complete the commercial buildout for us.

I knew that there was only one person that I would trust to build my dream and that was Chad, and Sherger Construction. They built an amazing facility on time and on budget and really delivered throughout the entire project.”
